Sec. 412.010 Introduction

This chapter is designed to provide guidance to human resources and management staff on the disciplinary investigation process and establishes the framework under which the State of Wisconsin will conduct employee investigations. Management has the right to take disciplinary action for behaviors exhibited by an employee that violate agency policy or State of Wisconsin work rules. Work rules apply to on-duty misconduct or off-duty misconduct that adversely affects either the State of Wisconsin’s ability to carry out its mission or an employee’s ability to perform their duties and responsibilities. Investigation and pre-disciplinary procedures for represented Public Safety Employees – employees in positions classified as State Patrol Troopers and State Patrol Inspectors – may be impacted by their collective bargaining agreement.

In order to remove, suspend without pay, discharge, reduce the base pay of or demote an employee for misconduct, a fair and thorough investigation must be conducted. The investigation determines the facts and should be objective, seeking out all evidence of guilt or innocence and any mitigating circumstances. It also means respecting rights of the employee, which include notice of the essential allegations of misconduct, the right to personal representation, and an opportunity to respond to the allegations.

Sec. 412.020 Statutory Authority

Section 230.34 (1)(a), Wis. Stats., states: “An employee with permanent status in class or an employee who has served with the state as an assistant district attorney or an assistant state public defender for a continuous period of 12 months or more may be removed, suspended without pay, discharged, reduced in base pay, or demoted only for just cause. It is just cause to remove, suspend without pay, discharge, reduce the base pay of, or demote an employee for work performance or personal conduct that is inadequate, unsuitable or inferior, as determined by the appointing authority, but only after imposing progressive discipline that complies with the administrator’s standards under s. 230.04 (13m)”.

Sec. 412.030 Investigatory Process

After a potential work rule violation is reported or suspected, the supervisor and/or human resources staff will complete Employee Investigation Reports – First Report of Potential Work Rule Violation (DOA-15807-A) (see Attachment #1). The appointing authority/designee will review the report/incident to determine whether a workplace investigation is necessary. If the appointing authority/designee determines work rule violations may have occurred after a fact-finding process, investigators will be assigned. Investigators must use Employee Investigation Reports – Investigation Chronological Log; Investigatory Interview; and Summary of Investigation Findings (DOA-15807-B, C & D) (see Attachment #1) to document the chronological sequence of events, investigatory interviews, and to summarize the investigation findings. DPM Enterprise may approve, upon request, an alternative investigation recording mechanism, in place of DOA-15807.

Each situation is unique; therefore, a set time limit is not required for employee investigations to be completed. The State of Wisconsin expects investigations to proceed in an efficient and timely manner. The process will take the amount of time necessary for the investigators to compile an accurate record of events and gather all the facts.

Employees who are the subject of an investigation must be notified of the requirement to attend an investigatory interview (see Attachment #2). The content of the written notice must include the following:

- Direction to appear at the investigatory interview.
- Date, time, location of scheduled meeting (if scheduled via phone or teleconference – include instructions with the phone number and/or video link to attend meeting).
- Brief description of the misconduct alleged to have occurred.
- Notice that a personal representative, including union representative, of the employee’s choosing is allowed, subject to sec. 412.060.
- Notice that the interview will be recorded and may be transcribed, if applicable.
- Employee Assistance Program (EAP) information.

The delivery of the notice can be completed by email, certified mail, or hand delivery, as long as receipt of notice is verified.

In most circumstances, scheduling of the investigatory interview should be during an employee’s normal hours of work. Reasons to schedule an investigatory meeting outside an employee’s normal hours of work would include accommodating the employee or if there is an immediate need for information. Employees will be provided a minimum of 24 hours advance notice of the investigatory interview. An employee who is not able to obtain representation within the timeframe given may request additional time by communicating the request to the investigator. It is the state’s expectation that investigators will work with employees to accommodate the requested representation but not permit unnecessary delay. In most cases, when reviewing a request for additional time, a delay of no more than two (2) additional business days is reasonable. In the event the employee’s preferred representative is not available within the extended timeframe, the employee must select an alternate representative. Employees are responsible for informing their personal representative of the date, time and location of the investigatory meeting. The employer may reschedule the investigatory interview for extraordinary circumstances.

In investigations regarding conduct which could constitute a criminal offense, pursuant to the United States Supreme Court’s decision in Garrity v. New Jersey, 385 U.S. 493 (1967), a public employee’s refusal to answer a question cannot be used as grounds for discharge where they are required to answer the questions unless they have been warned that the statements cannot be used against the employee in criminal proceedings. Accordingly, in such situations, management must decide whether it wants to require the employee to answer (and by doing so potentially limit evidence in a criminal proceeding) or allow the employee to decide to remain silent or to speak. One of the following options should then be included in the notice:

- Require Answers from the Employee: You are required to answer the questions truthfully and completely to the best of your ability. If you refuse to answer, you may be disciplined for that refusal, in addition to any other discipline which may be imposed for other misconduct. Any information or evidence you furnish in response to questions asked of you during this meeting, or any information or evidence which is gained by reason of your answers, may not be used against you in criminal proceedings.

- Employee's Choice to Remain Silent or Answer Questions: This is not a criminal investigation, but inquiry into illegal acts may be pursued to determine whether there has been a work rule violation. The allegations involved here are serious and may involve future criminal charges. Management is not going to require you to make any statement or answer any questions during this interview. Therefore, if any answer or statement you voluntarily give during this interview could be self-incriminating, it could be used against you in a criminal prosecution. If you choose not to answer questions or make a statement, management will make a decision based on the facts and information available to it.

Additionally, management must document on the Employee Investigation Reports – Investigations Involving Criminal Matters (DOA-15807-G) (see Attachment #1) that one of the options has been provided to the employee. A handwritten signature, an electronic signature, or documenting the employee's verbal notification is acceptable for the form. This form must be completed prior to any questions being asked at the investigatory interview.

A documented good faith effort must be made to interview all employees identified as relevant witnesses to an event. When a witness supervisor is assigned to investigate an employee, the supervisor must submit a written statement summarizing the event(s) to human resources prior to participating in or conducting any formal interviews. A witness supervisor may be tasked with leading an investigation when the matter involves attendance or performance issues, or when a subject matter expert is needed.

In situations in which there is an alleged criminal violation, or an employee is arrested, the employer will utilize one of the following, or a combination of the following options, if a potential nexus exists between the alleged conduct and the employee's job:

- Place the employee on paid or unpaid administrative leave, per Section 412.070 or 412.080, respectively, of this chapter, until the employee's arrest/criminal complaint is resolved (e.g., the employee is convicted, etc.).
- Temporarily reassign the employee within the agency until the arrest/criminal complaint is resolved.
- Initiate a formal workplace violation investigation. An independent investigation should involve interviewing the employee, the law enforcement officer who wrote the arrest report, and/or possibly other witnesses identified in the police report. Merely relying on police reports does not constitute an independent investigation.

Witness interviews will be documented on Employee Investigation Reports – Investigation Chronological Log and Investigatory Interview (DOA-15807-B & C) (see Attachment #1). Written notice of witness interviews should be given (see Attachment #3) and will include the following:

- The employee has been identified as the witness.
- Direction to appear for the interview.
- Date, time, place, location of the scheduled interview (if scheduled via phone or teleconference – include instructions with the phone number and/or video link to attend meeting).
- Reason for the interview.
- Notice that the interview will be recorded and may be transcribed, if applicable.

Note: If a witness was previously interviewed for a fact-finding related to harassment complaints, Use of Force reviews, or other similar process, and a structured Q&A was conducted, it may not be necessary to re-interview the witness. Information obtained during the intake and/or fact-finding process may be used in the disciplinary investigation. The prior interviews should be documented on the Employee Investigation Reports – Investigation Chronological Log and Investigatory Interview forms (DOA-15807-B & C). Employees may also be interviewed again. However, if the witness becomes the subject of an investigation, the employee must be re-interviewed to ensure due process is met.

If, during a witness interview, it is determined the witness employee may have violated agency work rules, the interview will stop, and the employee must be issued a formal investigation interview notice and is subject to the standard investigatory interview process.

Investigatory interviews with the subject of the investigation are conducted by two members of management, or their designees, utilizing Employee Investigation Reports –Investigatory Interview form (DOA-15807-C) (see Attachment #1). If a human resources representative conducts an investigation, this person will not be involved in subsequent steps of the discipline process (e.g., participate in determination of the level of discipline and the grievance process, etc.). In most circumstances Regional/Agency Human Resources Directors shall not conduct investigatory interviews. General guidelines are as follows:

- Conduct the meeting in a room which ensures privacy and provides adequate space for the participants.
- Make arrangements to avoid any interruptions.
- Use the Employee Investigation Reports –Investigatory Interview form (DOA-15807-C) (see Attachment #1) to inform the individuals of the process being followed.
- Listen very carefully to the information offered by the employee. Ask questions that seek information about the events. Questions should be probing, not judgmental and should not call for speculation. Ask clarifying questions. Do not make opinion comments to the employee at this meeting about their answers, about others who may be involved, or about potential discipline.
- Record the interview (in accordance with employing unit procedures) or take extensive notes.
- If applicable the employee may be given a confidentiality request. HR must be consulted prior to issuing.
- The employee and the personal representative are allowed to break from the meeting to caucus or consult when necessary.
- Summarize all findings from the interview on Employee Investigation Reports –Summary of Investigation Findings form (DOA-15807-D) (see Attachment #1).

An employee has an unqualified “duty to cooperate” in an internal investigation into work related matters where there is no possibility of criminal charges being brought against him/her. In this situation, an employee can be directed to answer all questions. Refusal to participate, answer, or be fully forthcoming may result in discipline up to and including termination.

Following the investigatory interview, investigators should consider the information provided by the employee, investigate any claims or leads provided by the employee, and consult with human resources/employment relations and the appointing authority/designee regarding further steps. The findings must be summarized on Employee Investigation Reports –Summary of Investigation Findings form (DOA-15807-D) (see Attachment #1). If a finding of no work rule violations is reached, the employee shall be notified in writing. If an employee resigns from state service or transfers to another state agency while the investigation is still ongoing, efforts should be made to complete the investigation. Where the investigation cannot be completed following the resignation, investigators should document the closing of the investigation due to resignation. A resignation acceptance letter should be issued noting the employee’s resignation while under investigation.

Sec. 412.040 Pre-disciplinary (Loudermill) Process

If, after the investigatory interview(s), it is determined a work rule violation may have occurred and discipline may be appropriate, management must provide the employee with an opportunity to respond to the essential facts and/or to offer mitigating information or circumstances. This meeting is referred to as a pre-disciplinary or Loudermill meeting, following the Supreme Court case Cleveland Board of Education v. Loudermill, 470 US. 532 (1985), and is a constitutional requirement based upon the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The objective of this meeting is to ensure that the employee has a full and fair opportunity to provide information for consideration prior to finalizing the discipline decision. This is the opportunity for the employee to “tell their side of the story.” This meeting also provides management with the opportunity to confirm/verify that it has reasonably considered and evaluated all available, relevant facts. The employee must therefore be made aware of management’s assessment of the essential facts which resulted in the determination a work rule violation may have occurred.

Employees must be notified of the pre-disciplinary meeting (See Attachment #4.). The content of the notice must include the following:

- Direction to appear at the pre-disciplinary meeting.
- Date, time, location of scheduled meeting. (If scheduled via phone or teleconference – include instructions with the phone number and/or video link to attend meeting).
- Work rules, serious acts of misconduct, and/or policies violated, and a brief description of the misconduct.
- Expectation the employee will come prepared with any additional documentation that supports their position, if any, to present at the pre-disciplinary meeting.
- Notice that a personal representative, including a union representative, of the employee's choosing is allowed, subject to sec. 412.060.
- Notice that the meeting will be recorded and may be transcribed, if applicable.
- Employee Assistance Program (EAP) information.

The delivery of the notice can be completed by email, certified mail or hand delivery, so long as receipt of notice is verified.

The pre-disciplinary meeting will occur during an employee's normal hours of work. Notice will be given a minimum of 24 hours in advance. An employee who is not able to obtain representation within the timeframe given may request additional time by communicating the request to the management designee. It is the state's expectation that the management designee will work with employees to accommodate the requested representation but not permit unnecessary delay. In most cases, when reviewing a request for additional time, a delay of no more than two (2) additional business days is reasonable. In the event the employee's preferred representative is not available within the extended timeframe, the employee must select an alternate representative. Employees are responsible for informing their personal representative of the date, time and location of the pre-disciplinary meeting (If scheduled via phone or teleconference – include instructions with the phone number and/or video link). At the employer's sole discretion, the employer may reschedule the pre-disciplinary meeting.

In special circumstances when the facts are well documented and well known (e.g., a documented pattern of unacceptable attendance confirmed by building entry records), a pre-disciplinary meeting may commence shortly after the investigatory meeting. In these cases, notice of the potential pre-disciplinary meeting must be given at the same time as the investigatory notice (see Attachment #5). This meeting notice must include all alleged work rule violations.

The pre-disciplinary meeting will be conducted by two members of management, or their designees, utilizing the Employee Investigation Reports – Pre-Disciplinary Meeting form (DOA-15807-E) (see Attachment #1). In most cases the appointing authority will not participate in the pre-disciplinary meeting. Witnesses are not allowed during the pre-disciplinary meeting. Guidelines are as follows:

- Identify the essential facts upon which the appointing authority/designee will be basing the disciplinary decision.
- Allow the employee the opportunity to provide additional information, identify potential witnesses, or present mitigating factors.
- Inform the employee that discipline has not been determined.
- Record pre-disciplinary meeting (in accordance with employing unit procedures) and/or take extensive notes.
- The employee and the personal representative are allowed to break from the meeting to caucus or consult when necessary.

Following the pre-disciplinary meeting the management designee will consider the information provided by the employee, investigate any claims or leads provided by the employee, and consult with human resources/employment relations and the appointing authority/designee regarding further steps. A final determination of appropriate level of discipline will be made by the appointing authority/designee and written notification must be given to the employee. Please refer to Chapter 410 – Employee Work Rules and Discipline Procedure, of the Wisconsin Human Resources Handbook, for additional information regarding discipline.

If an employee resigns from state service at the termination meeting, the employer shall acknowledge the resignation and note the employee resigned while under investigation (see Attachment #6).

Sec. 412.050 Investigation File

The investigation file refers to the complete record of the investigation and must include the following:

- Completed forms– Employee Investigation Reports (DOA-15807 A to H) (see Attachment #1), including evidence and all exhibits.
- Prior discipline issued, if applicable.
- Disciplinary letter/No action letter.

Note: A copy of the discipline letter must be placed in the employee’s official personnel file. All other documents contained within the investigation file should be stored separately from the personnel file and maintained by HR. Retention is governed under RDA HR000112 – Employee Discipline Related Records.

Sec. 412.060 Role of a Personal Representative

Employees will be allowed a personal representative if desired at formal investigatory interviews and during pre-disciplinary meetings. A personal representative may be a co-worker, a family member, friend, an attorney, union member, etc. The personal representative may participate in person, by telephone, or by teleconference. The selection of a personal representative who is also a state employee may be limited to a specific geographic location to limit fiscal impact, and/or based on operational need. An employee’s choice of personal representative may not inordinately delay the scheduling of meetings. A personal representative cannot be someone who was interviewed during the investigatory process.

If a personal representative is another state employee, they must coordinate with their supervisor and must be able to attend without disrupting their department’s operational needs and/or traveling an unreasonable distance. During the investigatory meeting(s) and the pre-disciplinary meeting:

- The employee and the personal representative are allowed to break from the meeting to caucus or consult when necessary.
- The personal representative may not answer questions posed to the employee.
- The personal representative may only ask clarifying questions during the investigatory meeting.
- Only during the pre-disciplinary meeting may the personal representative speak on behalf of the employee and/or provide a written statement on the employee’s behalf.
- At no time may the personal representative disrupt the process.

The personal representative may not be someone in the employee’s direct chain of command or in a role that presents a potential or real conflict of interest. A state employee who serves as a personal representative will be allowed to attend investigatory interviews/pre-disciplinary meetings without loss of pay if the interviews/meetings occur during the personal representative’s normal hours of work and it does not disrupt business operations.

Any expenses incurred by the employee or their personal representative while preparing for, traveling to, or attending an investigatory interview and/or pre-disciplinary meeting shall be the sole responsibility of the employee or personal representative. Limited and reasonable utilization of state resources such as computers, office equipment, office supplies, and state email is allowed. Utilization of state vehicles to attend an investigatory interview and/or pre-disciplinary meeting is prohibited. Employees who are personally assigned state vehicles may utilize their personally assigned vehicle to attend an investigatory interview and/or pre-disciplinary meeting so long as they coordinate with their supervisor and are able to attend without disrupting their department’s operational needs.

Sec. 412.070 Paid Administrative Leave

Paid administrative leave is the temporary removal of a permanent employee from duty, while remaining in paid status, at the direction of the appointing authority. The appointing authority may, after consultation with human resources, place an employee who is the subject of an investigation on paid administrative leave based on one or more of the following factors:

- The alleged work rule infraction is so serious that termination of employment is likely.
- The employee's continued presence at the worksite compromises the safety or security of the employee, other persons, the public, or the worksite.
- The employee's continued presence may impede the ongoing investigation.

The State of Wisconsin expects investigations to be completed in an efficient and timely manner. Therefore, the investigation of employees on paid administrative leave should be completed as quickly as possible.

Employees placed on paid administrative leave under this section must be available during identified work hours. If the employee is not available for health reasons, vacation, or personal business, the employee is required to follow agency procedures for obtaining authorization for an approved absence and will be required to take appropriate leave. Employees who are on paid administrative leave are not eligible to work except to participate in investigation activities at the direction of the appointing authority/designee. If possible, key cards, phones and/or computer access should be disabled for any staff on paid administrative leave.

Employees placed on paid administrative leave must be notified in writing (see Attachment #7). The content of the notice must include the following:

- Designate administrative leave with pay.
- Required hours of availability during paid leave.
- Contact information of employee on leave.
- Who to contact with questions (e.g., supervisor and/or human resources).
- Pre-approved scheduled leave will not be cancelled without employer approval.
- Holidays will be covered by available leave.
- Building and computer access will be disabled.
- Employee Assistance Program (EAP) information.

The notice for paid administrative leave is filed in the payroll document file and investigation file. Administrative leave letters are not stored in the employee's personnel file.

Sec. 412.080 Unpaid Administrative Leave

The appointing authority may, after consultation with human resources, place an employee on administrative leave without pay based on one or more of the following factors:

- The employee is not available for work due to incarceration, incapacitation, being unfit for duty, etc.
- The employee has experienced a loss of licensure, certification, etc., necessary to perform the minimum positions requirements of the job.
- A formal investigation is being conducted and the employee is serving an original probationary period.
- The employee qualifies for summary suspension as outlined in Policy Bulletin DPM-0504-ER.

Department of Administration, Division of Personnel Management (DPM) Enterprise staff approval must be obtained for requests under Policy Bulletin DPM-0504-ER.

Employees who are placed on unpaid administrative leave under this section must be available during identified work hours. Employees who are on unpaid administrative leave are not eligible to work except to participate in investigation activities at the direction of the appointing authority/designee, during which time they will be temporarily reinstated into paid status. Key cards, phones and/or computer access should be disabled for any staff on unpaid administrative leave.

Employees placed on unpaid administrative leave must be notified in writing (see Attachment #7). The content of the notice must inform the employee of the following:

- Designate administrative leave without pay.
- Required hours of availability.
- Contact information of employee on leave.
- Who to contact with questions (e.g., supervisor and/or human resources).
- Building and computer access will be disabled.
- Employee Assistance Program (EAP) information.

The notice for unpaid administrative leave is filed in the payroll document file and investigation file. Administrative leave letters are not stored in the employee's personnel file.

Sec. 412.090 DPM Enterprise Staff Participation in the Investigation/Pre-Disciplinary Process

Assistance may be requested from DPM Enterprise Workforce Relations (WR) staff in conducting investigations and pre-disciplinary interviews for an agency. The following situations may be appropriate for an agency to request DPM assistance:

- A real or potential conflict of interest is created by involving the employment relations staff assigned to the agency.
- High profile infraction/s that may result in significant public interest.
- Conduct may involve criminal matters.
- High level individual/s are the subject of the investigation.
- Highly complex cases or unique circumstances as discussed with DPM.
- Limited agency experience in conducting staff investigations, or in the particular subject area.

Additionally, DPM Enterprise Workforce Relations staff must be consulted in all cases which result in a recommendation to skip level(s) of progressive discipline, including up to termination, and in cases involving serious misconduct. This excludes termination of probationary employees without restoration rights, performance improvement plan terminations, termination of LTEs, and medical separations.

Sec. 412.100 Administrative Information

This chapter was updated in November 2023 to add clarifying language regarding job abandonment to Attachment #7.

This chapter was updated in April 2025 to state that notice that a meeting will be recorded should also include notice that the meeting may be transcribed, to be consistent with the provisions of the new enterprise Acceptable Use Policy.
